Embodying the Heart of the Heavenly Parent

Champions of True Love and Global Unity

Father and Mother Moon embody the ideals of the Kingdom of Heaven ("Cheonil-guk" in Korean), through their unwavering dedication to living for others and uniting humanity as one family under God. Their lives reflect true love – selfless, sacrificial, and harmonious – centered on the belief that the family is the cornerstone of world peace.

As founders of the Family Federation for World Peace and Unification, they have advanced initiatives in interfaith dialogue, peacebuilding, and education to create a prosperous and united world aligned with God's original ideal. They emphasize God as a loving Heavenly Parent who longs for an intimate relationship with humanity, His/Her children.

Revered as True Parents, Father and Mother Moon serve as a bridge between

God and humanity, revealing God's deep parental heart and guiding the restoration of the harmony and love lost since the fall of Adam and Eve. Their mission fulfills God's providence to restore humanity's original purpose and inspire all people to live as His/Her true sons and daughters.

Their efforts to unify religions, heal divisions, and promote the vision of a global family under God bring the Kingdom of Heaven closer to realization. Through their example, they empower individuals and families to embody God's heart, creating a world of true peace where God's desires are realized in every aspect of life. Father and Mother Moon stand as models of living in alignment with God's will, inspiring humanity to co-create a world of joy and unity. ●

Father and Mother Moon were born in what today is North Korea.

In their memoirs they openly share about their journey from receiving and understanding Heaven's calling to devoting all their energies to express the longing heart of God by embracing all people, bringing together all religions and cultures as one family.

Sun Myung Moon (1920-2012) and Hak Ja Han (1943-)

The Dawn of the Era of Cheonil-guk and the Cheonwon Temple

The Kingdom of Heaven, or Cheonil-guk in Korean, represents an ideal world envisioned by Father and Mother Moon, where God, humanity, and all creation coexist in harmonious unity. Translating as "Land of Cosmic Peace and Unity," Cheonil-guk embodies a society founded on true love, where individuals, families, and nations align with divine principles. This vision fulfills God's original purpose of creation: a conflict-free world where God's heart permeates all relationships, institutions, and cultures.

Central to this vision are the Cheonwon Temple and the Cheonil Sanctum, physical embodiments of Cheonil-guk's spiritual and cultural ideals. These sacred structures symbolize God's sovereignty and presence on Earth. The Cheonil Sanctum, the eternal dwelling place of God and True Parents, reflects their legacy of living for others.

It serves as a focal point for worship, devotion, and education rooted in heavenly traditions.

Meanwhile, the Cheonwon Temple functions as the administrative and spiritual headquarters for realizing Cheonil-guk globally. It harmonizes human efforts with divine will, fostering peace through practicing true love within families, communities, and nations.

Through these institutions, the Kingdom of Heaven transforms from an abstract ideal into a tangible reality. They inspire individuals to embody God's heart, creating the cultural and spiritual foundation for an eternal, heavenly realm on Earth. Together, they guide humanity toward a unified world of peace, love, and divine purpose. ●

Functions and Facilities of the Cheonwon Temple

A museum for the work of Heaven and God's central providence to restore the ideal of creation.

The heart of the Cheonwon Temple is the majestic Cheonil Sanctum, the home for God as the guiding and protecting force of the human family, and a holy room to converse with our Heavenly Parent.

Housing the central legislative organs of Cheonil-guk protecting its constitution – Governance Hall and Parliamentary Rooms

The area surrounding the main building exhibits sculptures of world-renowned artists, and is a space to enjoy the beauty of nature.

Cheonwon Temple and Cheonil Sanctum: Pillars of the Kingdom of Heaven

The Cheonwon Temple and Cheonil Sanctum stand as central symbols of Cheonil-guk – the Kingdom of Heaven envisioned by Father and Mother Moon. These sacred spaces embody God’s original ideal of creation, serving as hubs for spiritual connection, governance, and the cultivation of a heavenly culture.

The Cheonwon Temple, also called the palace of heavenly harmony, functions as the administrative and spiritual headquarters of Cheonil-guk. It integrates divine principles with human leadership, guiding efforts to establish a global society grounded in true love and peace. Housing the organizational framework of True Parents’ teachings, it fosters interdependence, mutual prosperity, and universal values. Its heavenly-inspired architecture invites visitors to align their lives with divine ideals.

At its heart lies the Cheonil Sanctum, a holy sanctuary representing the eternal presence of God and True Parents. This sanctified space serves as a spiritual core where individuals can offer prayers and devotion, deepening their connection with the divine. It symbolizes God’s abiding presence among humanity and emphasizes the centrality of divine love and guidance in human life.

Together, the Cheonwon Temple and Cheonil Sanctum anchor the vision of Cheonil-guk, transforming heavenly ideals into tangible reality. Far more than architectural marvels, they embody humanity’s commitment to co-create a world of peace and unity with God, offering hope and direction to all who seek to live in harmony with the divine will. ●

The Cheonil Holy Paintings

To the left and right sides of the Cheonil Sanctum, the main sanctuary of the Cheonwon Temple, fourteen master artisan works depict scenes of God's providential work.

The paintings were planned and commissioned by Mother Moon between 2016 and 2023.

The artists worked with a century-old Korean technique of mother-of-pearl inlay covered with lacquer painting.

Life and Vision of the True Parents

The seven works on the left illustrate the beautiful figure of the True Parents, the returning Messiah and the only begotten Daughter.

The seven works on the right showcase the efforts of the True Parents working around the world for unity and reconciliation, building Cheonil-guk together with peace-loving leaders and families.

"At a given time, God established many righteous people in different parts of the world and has also allowed specific religions to guide these regions through these righteous people. The aim of any religion should be to be able to explain the Creator and to deeply comprehend His essence. God waited for the birth of True Parents who were always aware of His heart and who were able to prepare the environment in which He could embrace all humanity.

We can now see and learn at a glance the 6,000-year history of heaven's providence through the 14 sacred paintings works of art made of mother-of-pearl, showing how the eternal Creator, our Heavenly Parent led the providence for the salvation of fallen humanity. They are unique works of art created by some of the finest artists in the world."

The Han River Miracle

South Korea's Post-War Transformation

After the Korean War (1950–1953), South Korea rose from devastation to become an economic and cultural powerhouse. Strategic industrial policies focusing on export-driven growth in sectors like electronics, shipbuilding, and automobiles spurred the “Miracle on the Han River.” Companies like Samsung and Hyundai emerged as global leaders, symbolizing South Korea’s industrial success.

Culturally, South Korea balanced modernization with tradition. The late 20th century saw the rise of Hallyu (the “Korean Wave”), exporting Korean music, film, and drama globally. Education and innovation flourished,

The religious movement led by Father and Mother Moon also contributed to South Korea’s development. The Tongil Group, a conglomerate founded by the movement, supported the industrial surge through investments in manufacturing and construction, creating jobs and bolstering the economy. Companies like Ilhwa played a role in promoting traditional Korean products, such as ginseng.

Culturally, the movement enhanced Korea’s soft power through initiatives like the Little Angels children’s folk ballet and Universal Ballet, showcasing Korean traditions and blending them with global art forms. Global outreach efforts, including peace rallies and interfaith dialogues, incorporated Korean cultural elements, introducing audiences worldwide to Korea’s heritage.

Sun Moon University is a unique institution in South Korea’s educational landscape combining academic quality with a strong commitment to fostering global peace, ethical leadership, and cross-cultural understanding.

In the movement’s teachings, Korea is positioned as a spiritual and cultural center. In fact, the Divine Principle, a key part of the message of Father and Mother Moon, offers profound insights into the deeper causal dimension behind the amazing Han River miracle, South Korea’s remarkable transformation.

South Korean democracy is stable yet vibrant, marked by dynamic public participation, robust debate, and occasional political contention. ●

HISTORIC CONTEXT

Fertile Ground for All Religions

Religious Growth in Post-War Korea: Christianity and Beyond

The Korean War (1950–1953) catalyzed significant religious growth in South Korea, particularly for Christianity. Amid the devastation and social upheaval, Protestantism flourished as a beacon of hope and renewal. Western missionary efforts, especially from the United States, intensified, bringing humanitarian aid, schools, and medical facilities that strengthened Christianity's appeal. The faith's principles of equality, compassion, and salvation resonated deeply with Koreans, contrasting traditional Confucian hierarchies. Churches also provided displaced individuals with community and support, becoming hubs of spiritual and social recovery.

Charismatic leaders like Billy Kim and megachurches such as Yoido Full Gospel Church propelled Christianity's expansion, making it a transformative force in Korea's cultural, political, and social landscape by the late 20th century.

However, Christianity was not the sole flourishing faith in post-war Korea. Buddhism, Confucianism, traditional Korean religions like Shamanism, and new religious movements also played crucial roles. Among these, the Family Federation for World Peace and Unification, formerly the Unification Church, emerged as a prominent global movement.

Founded by Father and Mother Moon, the movement integrated Korean values of filial piety, communal harmony, and family centrality into its teachings. It emphasized peace, unity, and reconciliation, resonating with a nation yearning for healing and reunification amid Cold War tensions. Through its advocacy for "true families" and global harmony, the Family Federation contributed to Korea's spiritual and cultural diversity, shaping its post-war identity and extending its influence globally.

2025 marks 80 years of division between opposing ideologies on the Korean Peninsula, yet hope for peaceful reunification endures despite ongoing challenges.

In the Great Epic Exhibition Hall at Cheonwon Temple, the Great Epic of the Chosen Korean People will showcase the 2,000-year history of this chosen nation in 13 monumental paintings. ●
